

M A R L A N E

The ZDHC programme (zero discharge of hazardous chemicals) identifies four key areas which are considered essential for the elimination of hazardous chemicals from the global textiles industry.

These areas are:

- Eliminate or replace hazardous chemical substances
- Develop transparent processes in order to promote safer chemicals
- Develop effective instruments, good practices and training to improve the management of chemical substances
- Develop collaboration with the stakeholders in order to promote transparency regarding the chemical substances used/discharged and the application of good practices